Investigators Hunt Clues in First Accident With DC9

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Dozens of investigators hunted for clues today in the mountain ravine into which an airliner crashed, killing all 18 persons on board.

The West Coast Airlines DC9 went down Saturday night in the rugged terrain about 30 miles southeast of Portland.

It took 17 hours to find the wreckage and another three hours to find a way to it. The only way turned out to be by air. The forest was like a jungle. There were no trails. Only a helicopter could get in, landing in a mountain meadow a quarter-mile from the crash.

The impact came as the jet descended the western slope of the Cascade range.

First Question

The plane almost made it. It was down to the 4,000-foot level, and if it had not been for a 4,200-foot ridge, the plane could have glided into Portland Airport on a flight from Eugene, Ore., 100 miles to the south.

The first question for crash investigators is why the pilot, who was flying on instruments, apparently thought he was higher than 4,200 feet.

Officials said he reported he was 10 minutes out of Portland. Ground control gave him permission to drop from 14,000 feet. He was asked to report when he got to 12,000 feet, and in no case to go below 9,000 feet without reporting.

At that point the radar controller said the plane disappeared from the radar scope.

Not only was it the first crash of a DC9, but it also was the first crash to take the lives of passengers in the 20-year history of the airline, which is a feeder route operating principally in the Pacific Northwest.

Near-Perfect Launch Lifts Essa Into Orbit

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — A new weather satellite, Essa 3, circled the earth's poles today after a near perfect launch Sunday.

A spokesman said the 320-pound spacecraft was scheduled to take its first test picture, of the northern hemisphere, around 3 p.m. EDT today and relay it to an Alaskan receiving station later.

The hatbox-shaped satellite was hurled into orbit by a Delta rocket, made up of a Thor missile and two smaller stages. It was the first Delta launched from the West Coast.

Biggest Docket in History

17-Minute Session Opens Busy Schedule of U.S. Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court held a 17-minute session today to open a new term that is expected to be the busiest in its long history.

The nine justices, appearing refreshed after their summer vacations, watched the admission of 53 attorneys to practice before the high tribunal and then recessed for closed conferences during the remainder of the week when they will consider stacks of new appeals filed during the summer.

Chief Justice Earl Warren began proceedings for the nine-month term by declaring: "The 1966 term of the Supreme Court is now convened."

Huge Docket
This session the court faces a record-high docket of nearly 1,500 cases including some dealing with such controversial issues as eavesdropping, privacy, church-state relations, obscenity and civil rights.

Next Monday the court will begin handing down its rulings. This is Earl Warren's 14th year as chief of justice and the 176th year in court history. Warren is 75.

The associate justices in order of seniority are: Hugo L. Black, 80; William O. Douglas, 68; John M. Harlan, 67; William J. Brennan Jr., 60; Potter Stewart, 51; Byron R. White, 49; and Abe Fortas, 56.

Viet Nam Shipping Backlog Revealed

Spokesman Says 60 Freighters Await Unloading Space at Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A shipping backlog, cut to near zero only a few months ago, has again become so serious that more than 60 freighters are waiting to be unloaded at this key port, U.S. officials and shipping sources said today.

These experts blamed the situation largely on feuding between the Army, the Agency for International Development and mismanagement.

The situation can be cured only by firm action at a high level in Washington to make the Army and AID work together, said the sources, who asked to remain anonymous.

U.S. Contractors
The shipping experts urged, among other things, that U.S. contractors with proven performance in the field be given the job of supervising the unloading of vessels bearing war goods and aid material.

Additional port facilities are being built along the river near Saigon, but the new berths may not be ready for months.

Other U.S. authorities acknowledge a bottleneck but attribute it chiefly to the South Vietnamese government's drastic economic reforms they say this resulted in jammed warehouses.

The government and shipping sources said there was practically no backlog of ships in June.

Now, they said, there are about 50 freighters moored off

14,800 Strike at 3 GE Plants; Other Workers Honor Johnson Plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least 14,800 union employees of the General Electric Corp. walked off their jobs at three plants today. But a nationwide strike against the huge defense supplier appeared to have been averted by a presidential plea.

President Johnson asked the company and unions to maintain plant operations while negotiations continued, contending a strike would damage the Viet Nam war effort.

About 13,300 workers walked off their jobs at GE's Schenectady, N.Y., plant, some 1,100 employees struck the firm's Carboloy Products Division at Warren, Mich., and 400 union draftsmen struck the GE plant at Pittsfield, Mass. Union spokesmen said these walkouts involved local issues.

Honor Plea
The remaining 105,200 union employees apparently were honoring the President's plea for a two-week postponement in a nationwide walkout which had been scheduled for 12:01 a.m. today, when their contracts expired.

Three Cabinet members, including Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, are joining negotiations that shift today to Washington after stalemating Sunday in New York.

A nationwide strike had appeared imminent when the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers rejected the key defense supplier's latest offer Sunday. Ten other unions representing 40,000 GE employees had been expected to follow the lead of the 80,000 IUE workers.

Needed in War
But Johnson asked the company and unions to continue plant operations, saying "our men in Viet Nam need these planes, these helicopters, these weapons."

"The presidential request has nothing to do with us," said Richard Bradley, business agent for IUE Local 301 representing 12,000 workers at the Schenectady Plant. He said Local 301 members and 1,300 members of other unions staged the walkout over local issues and not those involved in national negotiations.

The strike idled about 23,000

Find Poison Killed Blind Man's Dog

GREEN LAKE — A seeing-eye dog belonging to Paul Mehn, who is blind, died of strychnine poisoning, the State Crime Laboratory has found.

The dog died Sept. 15 in a Berlin veterinarian's office after Mehn discovered it was ill early that morning. Green Lake County Sheriff Raymond Winicki said.

Winicki took the dead animal to the crime laboratory, which performed exhaustive tests to determine the cause of its death.

A fund has been started by local residents and the Green Lake Lions Club to obtain another leader dog for Mehn. The Lions Club had provided his previous dog.

An investigation will be conducted by the sheriff and other authorities to determine if the poisoning was intentional or accidental.

Four years ago, several dogs were poisoned in this area, and the crime laboratory said strychnine was to blame.

Violence Erupts At Meat Plant In Harlan, Iowa

HARLAN, Iowa (AP)—Shelby County Sheriff Orrell Gearhart early today requested that the Iowa National Guard be called out to help quell violence at the Western Iowa pork plant near this southwestern Iowa community.

The sheriff said the violence erupted shortly after midnight in and around the plant in the 51st day of a strike by members of the United Packing House Workers Union.

He said more than 30 windows had been shattered in the plant building and several persons were injured when house trailers were tipped over near the plant. Five trailers were occupied by workers reportedly to have been sent in to work at the plant.

"Using Guns"

Gearhart said he was unable to determine how badly the injured were hurt because "we can't even get a doctor in there."

He said "about 70 persons" were milling around the building, adding that some of them were "using guns. They didn't fire at us," he said, but a number of shots were fired in the air and toward the plant.

He said officers were unable to do anything "because we don't have enough reinforcements."

A contract between Local 1225 of the Packing House Workers and the company expired last April, but the workers remained on the job until Aug. 18.

Last week, the company began rehiring replacements for the strikers, and full production was resumed Thursday.

The union reportedly struck in a dispute over wages. There have been no negotiating sessions between the company and the union, officials said.

Norwegians Allow Honoring of Columbus

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Crew members of the Norwegian freighter Tindfjell insisted Leif Ericson discovered America, but remained in good humor Sunday as their ship was informally rechristened in honor of Christopher Columbus.

After docking in Milwaukee Harbor, the ship became part of ceremonies preliminary to the city's eighth annual Italian-American Week. A delegation stepped aboard and renamed the ship the Santa Maria—for a day.

Tents Put Up To Protest UW Housing

MADISON (AP)—A new type of student housing project was erected on the University of Wisconsin campus today when three tents were set up on the library lawn.

A group calling itself the Wisconsin Student Tenant's Union set up the tents to dramatize its complaints about student housing on campus and to collect grievances from other students.

The tents, set up with university permission, will remain for two days.

Al Gonzalez, temporary chairman of the group, said its aim was to establish a model student lease "giving the tenant as many rights as the landlord."

The groups said it was especially concerned because a rental firm contracted with students for more spaces than were available.

Gonzalez said other grievances were high rents, alleged fire hazards and lack of heat and ventilation, and a "general laxity of the landlords in performing routine maintenance."

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Helicopter-hopping U.S. men to charge the force of more than 500 Viet Cong and North troops pounced on a fleeing Communist force today and reported killing 117 more of the enemy in mountains near South Viet Nam's central coast.

The added dead raised to 227 the two-day toll taken by units of the 1st Air Cavalry, Airmobile Division which fought a furious battle Sunday with the Communists and reported 110 killed.

Reports from the battle area 30 miles north of the coastal city of Qui Nhon said the number of Communist dead was still climbing.

B52 Raids
U.S. B52 bombers struck a little below the buffer zone today for the fourth straight day of raids inside or close to the zone.

The bombers rained explosives on North Vietnamese troop concentrations and infiltration routes 20 miles west of the Marines' forward headquarters at Dong Ha.

In the two months of fighting against the rebuilt 324B North Vietnamese division below the demilitarized zone, the Marines have reported killing 955 North Vietnamese and capturing four and seizing 17 weapons. But some Leatherneck units have been hard hit.

U.S. planes flew 113 bombing missions against North Viet Nam Sunday, and pilots claimed damage or destruction of 45 buildings, 13 trucks, and 10 bridges, and numerous hits on oil depots.

Troops Drive Students Back In Indonesia

At least eight Hurt Attempting to Storm Palace

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—At least eight students were bayoneted and scores were clubbed to the ground today as troops drove back 5,000 young Indonesians trying to storm President Sukarno's palace.

Shouting that Sukarno was a Communist leader and should be brought to trial, the students broke through a cordon of troops and raced along the shaded avenue toward the palace.

With flags and banners streaming as they surged toward the palace guards, the students at first were laughing and singing, apparently thinking the palace guard would fall back.

Oleo Replaces Butter Donations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Margarine almost has displaced butter in the Agriculture Department's donations of food to the needy.

The agency has bought nearly 32 million pounds of margarine so far this year for such donation programs. But only a few thousand pounds of butter have been bought because production is down and prices are higher than the department is willing to pay.

The decline in butter production reflects a 4 per cent downturn in milk production this year — a decline which greatly has reduced milk supplies for manufactured dairy products.

Cost of Living

The unions want a cost of living clause written into the proposed three-year contract. The GE-IUE conference board said Sunday that "unless we get adequate protection, anything we negotiate now—the value of wages, vacations, holidays, pensions and insurance—can be wiped out in the next three years."

The company has offered wage increases of 4 per cent yearly for three years and other improvements, including a partial cost of living clause, said to be worth at least 6 cents an hour per year.

Union officials say their men presently average $2.80 in wages and 45 cents in fringe benefits.

Another Manitowoc woman, Mrs. Charles Meisnest, 87, died in the accident.

And a way that just won't quit.

Club Prepares for Vision Screening Sessions

The first of two free vision screening clinics is scheduled by the Appleton Junior Woman's Club from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday at the YMCA. For children ages three, four, five and six, the testing will be repeated during the same hours Oct. 15. Saturday at the Appleton Junior Woman's Club, the vision screening sessions will be conducted by Dr. Jeffrey L. Warren and Dr. Donald Garelick.

The Addition of Two New Tests to their vision screening program called for additional training on the part of the Appleton Junior Woman's Club, which will repeat its free testing of pre-school children Saturday and Oct. 15. The training was taken by Dr. Jeffrey L. Warren and Dr. Donald Garelick. The Junior Woman's Club purpose in sponsoring the clinics is the early discovery of visual defects and the education of parents and the community to the value of good vision.

A. B. C's To help parents determine if such testing is important to their child, the club has outlined A. B. C's for parents to consider. In Appearance, symptoms of difficulty may be crossed eyes, red-rimmed, irritated or swollen eyelids; inflamed or watery eyes or recurring styes. Visual Behavior problems may be rubbing the eyes excessively, shutting or covering one eye or tilting or thrusting the head forward, difficulty in reading or other close work; excessive blinking or irritability when doing close work; stumbling over small objects; holding a book close to the eyes; inability to see distant things clearly; and squinting or frowning.

Dizziness, Nausea The C's involve complaints a child may make, such as eyes that itch, burn or feel scratchy, not seeing well, dizziness, headaches or nausea after doing close eye work, and blurred or double vision.

These eye difficulties, either singly or in combination, indicate it may be wise for a parent to take advantage of the free screening. Children found to have genuine difficulties will be referred for a professional examination. Parents who cannot afford such care will be referred to the City Health Dept.

Charge of Project Committee heads of the Junior Woman's club project are Mrs. Donald Garelick, Mrs. James Zwack, Mrs. Daniel Dorchester and Mrs. James Walkowiak, coordinating; Mrs. Dorchester, materials; Mrs. Walkowiak, scheduling volunteers; Mrs. John Turner, nursing schools; Mrs. Robert Sigman assisted by Mrs. James Crane, recording; Mrs. Robert Swan, Mrs. Dennis Herrling, Mrs. Frank Lehman and Mrs. Harry Hall, publicity; Mrs. Timothy Moe, clerical and distribution, and Mrs. John McInnes, Girl Scouts, who will assist the days of the screening. Also participating in the fall testing program will be members of the Appleton Woman's Club.

Wisconsin Optical, Inc., Green Bay, has provided the Appleton Junior Woman's Club with a light box to facilitate the testing of three, four, five and six-year-olds. Getting acquainted with the testing aid are Mrs. Philip Schlichting, Mrs. James Zwack and Mrs. Richard Hoffman. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Washing Hints

When washing saran-fiber curtains the automatic way, use warm water for the suds and rinse cycles. Also use a low dryer setting, and remove them from the equipment promptly to prevent wrinkling.

Husbands Discover Modern Chivalry

The way a woman looks and what she says. Otherwise, you may find yourself saying "uh-uh" to her proposal to buy a new set of china, or have your husband visit for two weeks. Take her on business trips when you can. Many women envy their menfolk the "glamorous" of the business world. So why not give your spouse a taste of it — and a much-needed break from household routine — when you travel on business? According to the American Hotel & Motel Association, a double room usually costs little more than a single. Meals needn't be a costly problem either, since many first-class hotels and motels offer fine food at quite reasonable prices.

If you take the kids along — and many hotels and motels make no extra charge if they occupy the same room as their parents — they needn't cramp your style when you want to take your wife out on the town. Often the hotel or motel management can help you arrange for a babysitter. Tell her how well she cooks. She spends a lot of time in the kitchen — and you do want her to think it's time well spent. So be lavish with your praise in this department; bread cast upon the waters may yield more than a fish. French toast. When she makes your favorite dishes, comment on her thoughtfulness — and ingenuity. "Oh — I had that for lunch today." A wife whose by cooking is far under par should child-rearing and home economy. "I don't know how you do it, I couldn't," will be music to his ears. Some psychologists believe that when a woman consistently burns the toast and undercooks the potatoes, she's expressing resentment of her husband!

Be fair about money. Even if you are the sole money earner in the family, it takes two to draw up a budget and make it work. Always be frank about the state of your finances; secrecy about money, according to marriage counselors, creates tensions and resentments that can undermine a relationship. Resist the temptation to play Scrooge even when money is tight. Give her a personal allowance even if she doesn't ask for one, and take one yourself. This should be "splurge" money — and neither of you should have to give an account of it. You'll find it makes budgeting easier on the temper — and on your marriage!

Give the little lady a great big hand. Sometimes do the dishes without being asked. If you have small children, volunteer your service as babysitter for Saturday afternoon while she takes a breather. Incidentally, your help with the kids should extend to that, too!

Be a bit of a romantic. This doesn't have to be the candy, flowers and "our song" routine — although that would be fine if it comes naturally. Keeping the romance in your marriage can mean remembering anniversary and birthday dates even if you have to have them tattooed on your palm — and giving her what she wants for the occasion, not what you, your secretary or the salesgirl in the store think she ought to want. It can mean a dash of showmanship — like bringing home a bottle of champagne to go with dinner — or whisking your wife off to a hotel or motel for a weekend rendezvous. And it can mean taking her out to dinner — before she begs you to!

Don't wait for her to ask if you love her. Sometimes tell her that you do.

Ann Describes Her Work as Long, Anything But Easy

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife and I heard you speak at a convention a few months ago. When you said you work 10 to 12 hours a most every day I gave you a huge. She didn't believe it and neither did I.

When you say you are kidding, half of your work is done by the people who write to you. Some of these letters are even published. When they were published in a letter that appeared previously and you say "Thank you for writing" or "I will get you a one" and on a letter that.

Now you say you are kidding. Half of your work is done by the people who write to you. Some of these letters are even published. When they were published in a letter that appeared previously and you say "Thank you for writing" or "I will get you a one" and on a letter that.

explanation — if you can come up with one — Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Thomas.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Thomas: This question has been raised the fact is they do — to the tune of approximately 1,000 letters every day.

We have a complete file of service agencies for every city in which this column appears. We send readers to Legal Aid, the Family Service Association, homes for unwed mothers, mental health clinics, Alcoholics Anonymous, the Y.M.C.A. — the list is a long one. We mail huge numbers of booklets. We respond to hundreds of requests for speaking engagements. (Usually, Sorry No.) We send copies of my books to readers who are unable to get to a book store.

This work is immensely satisfying and it is enormously demanding. When I take a vacation or go on a lecture trip the columns are written in advance. There is never a box in the paper saying "Ann Landers is on vacation."

To maintain the quality I strive for 365 days a year is a backbreaking job, and there are no honest short-cuts. As Red Smith put it, "Writing a daily column is easy. All you have to do is sit at a typewriter until small drops of blood form on your forehead." Thank you for writing.

Awkward and self-conscious? Unsure of yourself? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Landers

by others and I am going to try to answer it — again.

If it were possible to "get" me for anything, I assure you I would have been "got" years ago. I would not have been in this work for 11 years, nor would mine be the most widely syndicated column in the world.

There is more to producing a column than grabbing a few letters out of the mail bag. I read thousands of letters in order to make an appropriate selection. Some days I read as many as 500 letters before I find one that is suitable for use in the column.

Almost every letter must be trimmed because people write too long, especially when they are distressed. Often the language must be laundered. The copy goes through my typewriter at least twice, usually three times. Then I sit at my editor's elbow as he slashes away. He frequently asks me to rewrite an answer, or he'll kill a letter simply because it's dull or because I've dealt with a similar problem recently.

So far all I've done is produce the column. But I keep eleven secretaries busy helping with personal replies to readers who send self-addressed stamped envelopes. We direct thousands of people to physicians, lawyers, psychiatrists, and clergy men. We refer thousands more to service agencies.

This is my mission — to help those who ask for it. Why thousands of people sit down and write to an advice columnist in the first place is an interesting question. But

We Spend Millions of $ Pampering Our Pets

Refused Chance For High-Paying Job in Business

BY AMBROSE B. DUDLEY
CRESTON, N.C. (AP) — Jerrie Howell listens attentively, with frequent nods of approval as her husband preaches the same sermon at three different mountain churches on Sunday morning.

Their 9-month-old daughter, Melissa Dare, sleeps.

At night, the Rev. Keith Howell delivers the sermon a fourth time at still another church.

The 30-year-old Emory University graduate serves 10 Methodist churches in the Blue Ridge Mountains of western North Carolina.

As the crow flies, Creston is six miles from West Jefferson, in Ashe County, but by road it's 15 miles and 30 minutes.

The 30-minute services are conducted at 9:30 a.m., 10:30 a.m., and 11:30 a.m., giving him 10 minutes to drive over one-lane winding mountain roads to the next church, up to four miles away.

'Never On Time'

"I never make it on time," lamented the Rev. Mr. Howell.

He tells of visiting a country store once when an Air Force jet flew over at low altitude. One of the men sitting around the potbelled stove said: "Why preacher, if you weren't standing here I would say that was you on the way to church."

He preaches at four churches each Sunday. Laymen serve two more, and four have no services that Sunday. The schedule is rotated each week.

The Rev. Mr. Howell turned down a post as associate pastor of a large metropolitan church to have his own church. He didn't know it was going to be a 10-church charge, but he is not sorry.

"I think you learn more by having the responsibility of your own church. You make mistakes, but you learn by them. I have a lot of ideas I want to put into use," he said.

Wants to Preach

"As an associate, many decisions are made for you. You don't get to preach every Sunday as an associate, and I wanted to."

To enter the ministry, he quit a job with a large electronics firm paying twice as much as he now makes. Since the Rev. Mr. Howell was sent here a year and a half ago, the task has been hard, but the rewards many.

During the winter, snow was four feet deep in the Howells' yard, but "someone cleared our

Whether you would or would not do any or all of these things, a startling nationwide trend toward the upgrading of the feeding, clothing, housing, beautifying and entertaining of our pets to our own levels is clearly underway.

Item: Americans spent a total of $712 million last year on food for their dogs, cats and birds, up $96 million in just 12 months.

Item: The average American supermarket shopper today spends a total of nearly 1 cent out of every grocery store $1 on food for dogs, cats and birds. Our total spending on pet food alone exceeds our total spending for either frozen vegetables or for phonograph records, for instant coffee or for all cold cereals.

Item: The commercial cat food business has quadrupled in the past 10 years alone.

Elegant Props

driveway." They were snow-bound for three days, but food and gifts from church members kept them comfortable.

The Rev. Mr. Howell is an ardent fisherman and there is a mountain brook across the road from the house. At Christmas, the parishioners "pound" the preacher with canned goods and meat. They bring him milk of the charge received a live pig at Christmas.

The people the Rev. Mr. Howell serves are individualistic, loyal to their families, and cling to the King James version of the Bible, the minister said.

Total membership of the churches is 375. About 210 attend last winter, however, only five church regularly. The churches, having as few as six members, grew from revivals during the 19th century. Attempts to consolidate them have been resisted

Luxury Foods

As recently as 1960, an estimated 70 per cent of the food consumed by our cats consisted of table scraps. Today, the figure is down to 40 per cent and in place of scraps, we are feeding our pets more and more "luxury" foods. One major producer's line of cat fare ranges from chicken parts and liver to tuna and a "gourmet feast." This producer claims that 50 cents of every dollar we spend for cat food is for "luxury" cat food. Moreover, on top of the regular meals we buy and prepare for our pets, we are feeding them a growing volume of pet snacks between meals, similar to the way we feed ourselves at coffee breaks and the cocktail hour.

The huge outlays we are now making for the "peopleization" of our pets are trends covering not just the pedigreed dog and cat. We also are pampering our tens of millions of alley cats and shaggy dogs as never before.

It's the same "old" but ever tantalizingly new tale of affluent America. Can the time be coming when — because of their growing role in the family's finances — our pets will be counted as members of the household when the census taker calls? With the total bill for dogs alone already at $3 billion a year, could this not be more logical than it superficially seems?

Delay Ruling on Grand Chute Residential Plat

Appleton Planners Promise Action At Oct. 17 Meeting

A proposed residential plat in the Town of Grand Chute near the Apple Creek area failed to receive the approval of the Appleton Plan Commission today.

However, the commission said it would take action at its Oct. 17 meeting after obtaining more information on what affect the proposed platting would have on natural drainage areas leading to the city.

Under law, the commission has some jurisdiction on plats within a three-mile radius of the city.

A plat for the second addition to the Parkview Terrace Plat, which consists of 15 lots, each 13,000 square feet in size and to be served by septic tank systems, previously had been rejected by the State Department of Resource Development on a minor technicality.

Recalled Study

Commissioner Raymond LeVeé recalled he served on a committee last year which conducted an extensive study on the need for some type of a lot grade policy to prevent flooding.

"It was the feeling the city should not approve platting which would create a hardship later on," LeVeé said.

The commission was informed the Fox Valley Regional Plan Commission had approved the tentative plat.

Gene Franchetti, planning commission director, said he was working with Town of Grand Chute officials on platting problems. "They are aware of some of these things and want to do something about it," Franchetti said.

The plan commission decided to check whether the city council adopted an ordinance last year with reference to plats within its extra-territorial jurisdiction.

Student Charged With Marijuana Possession

Lawrence Sophomore Arraigned on Felony Count After Search of Fraternity Room

Robert J. Uhe, 18, a Lawrence University sophomore from Northbrook, Ill., Friday afternoon was arraigned in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 on a charge of illegal possession of marijuana.

Uhe, who appeared in court with an attorney and a Lawrence University official, requested a preliminary examination which County Judge Gustave J. Keller set for Tuesday, Oct. 11. Uhe posted a $1,000 bond, furnished with the help of University officials.

Uhe's arrest by Appleton detectives late Thursday came on the same day that Dennis Erdman, 24, formerly of Appleton and more recently of Madison, was arraigned in County Court on a charge of selling marijuana for smoking purposes.

Erdman was arrested by Madison police on a warrant issued by Outagamie County Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer. He is being held in the county jail in lieu of posting $2,500 bond.

Detectives arrested Uhe after Erdman reportedly told them he sold marijuana to the university student. The complaint prepared by the district attorney's office, states that police recovered marijuana from Uhe's room.

A search of his fraternity house room was made after a search warrant was obtained Thursday.

Material Analyzed It was determined the substance found in his room was marijuana, following a laboratory analysis Friday in Madison. Uhe was held in the city jail from his arrest Thursday to his court appearance Friday.

Investigation by Appleton detectives began after they learned Erdman allegedly sold two marijuana cigarettes to an Appleton man at a northside tavern early the morning of Sept. 24.

Erdman is scheduled to appear in County Court Branch 2 at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday. The continuance was granted to allow him time to retain an attorney.

Possession and sale of marijuana both are felony offenses.

Police Recover 2 Stolen Cars

Two cars reported stolen in Appleton Sunday have been recovered.

Michael Fischer, 603 S. State St., reported his 1959 auto missing at 2:20 a.m. Sunday. The keys had been left in the morning changed their pleas to car which later was found guilty on a charge of failing to send their 15-year-old son to school.

A 1962 car taken from the driveway of M. J. Eich, 1324 S. cent Friday morning and trial Alicia Drive, was recovered today in about noon Sunday in a drive- Outagamie County Court way in the 400 block of W. Branch 2.

They were charged following patrolman. The car was reported missing at 7:55 a.m. Sunday. Dr. Eich told police his car also was stolen from his driveway on Sept. 16 and was found the next day in the Miller Electric parking lot. He said the keys were not recovered at that time.

County Judge Gustave J. Keller continued the case to Oct. 10 for sentencing.

Power Company Rate Drops Receive Agencies' Approval

Homeowners, Farmers, Firms, To Share $832,000 of Reduction

Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. (WMPCO) announced this morning that its proposed $832,000 annual electric rate decrease has been approved by the necessary regulatory commissions. A total of 70,000 homeowners, farmers, small businessmen and industries will share in the substantial reduction.

"Individual rate reductions will vary among the different classes of customers and the amount of electricity used," John H. McLean, assistant vice president, explained. He offered an example of the rate reduction a typical homeowner in the Appleton metropolitan area who uses 600 kilowatt hours a month. That homeowner's monthly electric bill will be reduced from $14.30 to $13.25, a savings of $1.05 a month or $12.60 a year.

New Rate Schedule Farms, small businesses and industrial firms also will recognize substantial savings in their electric costs. A schedule of the new rates will be mailed to each customer.

"The new rates will be charged for electricity used after the first meter reading following Oct. 20," McLean said. For most people this means that energy used during November will be under the lower rates. Customers will receive these bills in December.

"The full impact of the across-the-board decrease may not be immediately apparent," McLean said. "This is because more electricity is normally used as days get shorter and the weather turns colder. Electric motors in furnaces and lights run longer causing bills to go up."

Farmers Save "A typical farmer will save approximately 50 cents a month under the new rates," he continued. "If the farmer uses electricity for water heating, the savings will be at least twice as much."

Small businesses that pay a monthly electric bill of approximately $100 will save $6.60 a month.

Meat Cutters Picket Stores

Claim Appleton, Neenah Firms Unfair In Labor Dealings

Picketing of three Park 'N' Market stores, two in Appleton and one in Neenah, by nine members of Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers Workmen of America Local No. 73 began at 6:30 a.m. today.

A hearing on charges alleging unfair labor practices by the stores has been scheduled for Nov. 1, according to Gordon Loehr, Fond du Lac, union business agent.

Loehr said today the complaint charges Park 'N' Market with refusing to bargain with the union and intimidating and coercing employees to repudiate union membership.

Managers of the three stores did not comment on today's picketing.

Outagamie Cities Show Drop

Fourth of County's Value Is in Towns

Towns in Outagamie County represent more than one-fourth of the total value of the county, up 3 per cent from 1965, according to statistics compiled by State Department of Taxation assessors.

Equalized real estate and personal property values for 1966 show the county's 20 towns represent 25.76 per cent of the total equalized value. A subsequent drop in the percentage of county towns adjacent to metropolitan areas. The Town of Grand Chute showed an increased ratio to the county total of more than 2 per cent, and an all-property increase of more than $20 million since 1965.

Cities Drop

On a percentage-of-total basis, however, villages in the county showed practically no change in equalized value. State officials credit the boost in town percentages to a sudden increase in the value of land in

Appleton Budget Requests Total Record $16,167,488

Would Result in $8 Per $1,000 Tax Rate Increase Unless Cut By City Finance Committee

The 1967 budget requests of all Appleton municipal departments, boards, commissions and agencies total a record $16,167,488, it was learned today.

The common council's finance committee will be presented with a summary of requests and anticipated revenues tonight by Finance Director Henry Schreve.

Schreve estimates budget requests as they stand call for a tax rate increase of slightly more than $8 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

This would mean a gross tax rate of $32.93 as compared to the present $44.93.

Largest Increase

Largest department budget increase is that of the board of education — up $816,843 over this year.

Mayor George Buckley said he was "alarmed by the high budgets" and expressed confidence the finance committee would make substantial cuts.

The actual 1966 city budget, including operation of the public school system, was $13,461,448.

Requests to date — and more will be coming on the basis of city and union negotiations — exceed this year's actual budget appropriations by $2,749,140.

Bargaining Unfinished While the city has been bargaining with most of the employee unions and associations, it has yet to start negotiating a 1967 contract with the Teamsters Local 563, which represents department of public works employees.

Buckley noted that several weeks ago he asked all departments, including the school board, to hold down budget requests as much as possible.

"It's obvious I haven't had much response," Buckley declared. However, the mayor said he would back all actions of the finance committee and intended to "attend and participate in every meeting of the budget examiners."

Requests Too High "Even though we know cuts are going to be made," Buckley said, "I can't help but feel these requests are running too high to the point we are biting off more than the people can chew."

Buckley said he "heard rumors" the school board has plans to ask for permission to construct another new elementary school on the city's southeast side in a year or so.

"I can't believe they would do that to the city," Buckley declared. "The school board is in the process of building two new schools now and the time

Buckley Urging Cuts

Buckley said he would urge cuts in all budgets wherever possible without affecting "the essential needs."

Anticipated revenues in 1967 are estimated at $7,664,267, compared with $6,546,440 this year.

Using the revenue figure, it would mean budget requests, as they now stand, would call for a tax levy of $8.503.221.

To be added later will be the city's share (about 50 per cent) of the county budget, which will be set by the Outagamie County Board.

Appleton Tax Share Less Than Expected

Officials Concerned; State Payment Was $637,258

Appleton officials were upset today after the city received its second of three state tax allotment checks today in the amount of $637,258.

Finance Director Henry Schreve and Treasurer Ray Feuerstein both commented they thought the allocation would be higher. A year ago the second payment was $626,464.

The third and final payment will come in November or early December. Officials said they have a general idea of what it should be.

However, looking back to June when the first payment totaled $631,674, they said the anticipated tax income is not living up to expectations.

Two state tax payments, representing the city's percentage share of individual and corporate tax collections, have amounted to $1,268,932.

Schreve, Feuerstein and City Assessor John Pierre said the city was on the right track considering an annexation program.

Inflation Outstrips Viet Nam In Concern, Humphrey Says

Laird Feels Elections Will Represent Feelings on War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey puts "so-called inflation" and "the quality of life" ahead of the Viet Nam war as top issues in the November congressional elections.

Former Sen. Barry M. Goldwater agrees that Viet Nam will not be the issue. He says the increased cost of living and "morality — crime on the street" both will be more important.

But Rep. Melvin R. Laird said today President Johnson's conduct of the war is a major issue in the elections.

Laird, Wisconsin Republican who heads the House GOP Conference, said if the American people find Johnson's leadership of the war lacking "they will register this finding at the polls."

Great Issues of '66
In remarks prepared for delivery in the House, Laird said that through extensive travels around the country he had identified four "great issues of 1966."

Besides Viet Nam, he said, the people are concerned about inflation, maintenance of the two-party system and what he called the steady growth of the federal system at the expense of state government.

Cincinnati Jittery Over Brutal Killings

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A hardware store bolted its doors today after a series of chain killings. A City Council votes $20,000 to investigate the crime.

A metropolis already jittery from a series of savage murders was jolted again last week by the slaughter of a chemical engineer, his pretty wife and their 4-year-old daughter in their suburban home.

That vicious crime "points up the need to do something as rapidly as possible," said Cincinnati Councilman John E. Held, who already had spearheaded a special inquiry into rising violence.

Cincinnati's City Council authorized a committee headed by Held to spend up to $20,000 investigating ways to stem crime and violence. Public hearings start Friday.

The laboratory director, Capt. Daniel Dragel, said the complete report on the evidence would be ready this week.

Moratorium Expires Oct. 16

Milwaukee NAACP Won't Stretch Suspension of Eagles Picketing

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A civil rights group has refused to extend its suspension of picketing demonstrations against the homes of prominent members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

The moratorium is to expire Oct. 16, and the Rev. James E. Groppi, a white Roman Catholic priest who is the council's adviser, said the group is not willing to extend the suspension.

However, he said, "most likely there will not be any demonstrations at homes of public officials" before state-selected negotiators of the dispute meet Oct. 19 in New York City with officials of the NAACP and the Eagles.

Continue Patrol
Nathaniel Harwell, 22, the council's publicity chairman, said the group plans to continue its latest form of protest — Patrolling of the home of Police Chief Harold A. Breier.

Police have been patrolling the council's headquarters, and council members said the police protection has become harassment. Five council members were taken into custody last week after one of them was accused of littering a street by discarding a cigarette.

Council members, saying they were providing similar protection for Breier, sat in parked cars outside the chief's home Friday and Saturday while policemen watched from patrol cars.

Breier said the watch posted at his home amused him, and area Sept 26. The other five that the demonstrators' head-

Eagles to Discuss Membership Policy

Feinsinger to Mediate Talks Between NAACP, Fraternal Order

MADISON (AP) — Civil rights spokesmen and officials of the Fraternal Order of Eagles are to meet Oct. 19 to discuss Eagles membership policies involved in Milwaukee-area civil rights demonstrations.

Nathan Feinsinger, the University of Wisconsin law professor asked by the state to mediate the membership dispute, said Saturday four representatives of the Eagles and four from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People are to meet in New York City.

D. D. Billings, national president of the Eagles, and Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP, agreed to head their groups' delegations. Feinsinger said.

The nationally known mediator has met with the two men in other sessions aimed at resolving complaints by the NAACP's Milwaukee Youth Council against the Eagles' allegedly segregated membership rules.

The council began its protest activity Aug. 9 with picketing at the Milwaukee-area homes of prominent members of the club in protest of the membership policy.

Picketing at the homes was suspended at Feinsinger's request during talks with the Eagles and the NAACP.

Feinsinger said the New York meeting would be the third in a series of sessions attended by Eagles and NAACP officials.

Its purpose, he said, "is to work out an agenda for subsequent meetings, particularly to identify the parties in interest, to define the issues and to state the relief requested."

Body of Lost Boater Found On Green Bay

STURGEON BAY (AP) — The body of one of five persons who vanished when their boat was sunk in Lake Michigan's Green Bay Aug. 20 has been recovered on the north shore of Door Peninsula.

The body found Saturday about 10 miles north of Sturgeon Bay was identified as that of Walter Laundree, 40, of Marinette, owner of a 17-foot pleasure craft which failed to return from a 20-mile outing from Marinette to Chambers Island.

A few days after the disappearance, searchers found the sunken boat south of Marinette and also recovered the bodies of two of the passengers, Gloria Kelley, 19, of Menominee, Mich., and Laundree's stepdaughter, Germaine Peterson, 16, Marinette.

Still missing were Robert Wendt, 19, and William R. Marves, 21, both of Milwaukee.

The cruiser failed to return from the Chambers Island trip after rain and strong winds whipped off Lake Michigan into Green Bay. The Coast Guard had said the storm raised 5-foot waves.

Milwaukee Firm Selected to Design NE Campus

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Contracts have been signed by the State Department of Administration to initiate master plans for the Northeast University of Wisconsin in Green Bay.

The J. G. Daverman Co., Milwaukee, has been awarded the contract.

Estimated cost of the planning will be between $30,000 and $35,000 according to State Bureau of Engineering spokesmen.

Included in the plans will be the complete development of the site including the location of projected buildings, placement of roads and sidewalks and all steam, water, sewer and power facilities.

No Construction
No actual construction work is provided for in the contracts.

Funds for development of the master plan will be drawn from $400,000 allocated for planning purposes by the 1965 Legislature.

The spokesman indicated that further planning developments are expected within a week. At a meeting of the State Building Commission scheduled Oct. 10, the University of Wisconsin will request authorization to sign contracts for the actual design of buildings needed for a 1969 opening date.

The university has expressed a need for four classroom and office buildings and a "surge" building to handle administration and overflow activities by that date.

There are also eight other points in the contract dispute.

A company spokesman said no machines are presently operating. Five machines at Lakeview and two others at Badger Globe were shut down Friday noon. Menasha Council May Learn Poss' Decision Tonight MENASHA — Councilmen may learn tonight whether the city will have to start hunting for a new director of public works.

A letter is expected to be read to the council from Robert Poss, whose resignation from the $10,300 a year position has been widely reported among city officials but unconfirmed by Mayor Kenneth Holmes.

The letter's existence was confirmed last week, but its contents were undisclosed.

Holmes said this morning there may be discussion of a proposed purchase of property by the city, but said he preferred to save the details for the aldermen tonight. It is customary that property purchases be handled quietly until final arrangements have been made, to avoid possible inflation of prices or other problems that might arise through premature publicity.

Tonight's meeting will be preceded by street committee state, and health and welfare committee sessions. Matters taken up by the council tonight will be brought back for formal action Tuesday night.

Oneida Street Closed During Repair Work

Railroad Crossing Will be Raised, Area Resurfaced

Several blocks of N. Oneida Street, including a railroad crossing, will be closed for extensive repairs this week. The crossing between North and Pacific streets will be closed for a week, starting today, as crews of the Chicago and North Western Railway Co moved in. Plans call for the tracks to be raised and the entire crossing, which has been a prime target of motorists' complaints in recent months, to be resurfaced. Donald Bengs, acting public works director, said while the railroad was fixing the crossing, the city's street resurfacing crew would also be working in the area.

Ski Club, Park Board Program

Chalet Started at Calumet County Park

STOCKBRIDGE — Ground has been broken to start construction of a ski chalet at the base of the ski slope at Calumet County Park.

The county park board, in cooperation with the Fox Valley Ski Club, at a recent meeting, agreed to spend $12,000 for construction of the 60 by 28 foot chalet. The county and ski club will share construction costs.

Lothar Funke, park custodian, and John Noffke, Neenah contractor, are in charge of the building project. The building will have two large windows and a ticket window facing Lake Winnebago, with three picture windows overlooking the ski slope. Also included in the plan are two circular fireplaces, first aid room and, if funds are avail-

Announces Decrease in Electric Rates

100,000 kilowatt hours or more a month will save approximately $100 a month or $1,200 a year.

"These figures show that savings will be proportionately greater for those who use more electricity," McLean explained. "This is particularly true for homeowners and businessmen who heat their buildings electrically."

For example, McLean said, the cost of electric home heating now has dropped another 10 per cent. This means the cost of heating a home electrically has been reduced 30 per cent during the past 26 months.

"With this latest rate decrease, we believe that electric home heating is competitive with conventional fuels," he added.

"This reduction in the cost of electricity comes at a time when most prices are on the rise," McLean pointed out. "However, the savings realized by new advances in extra high voltage transmission and the ever-increasing demand for electricity made this decrease possible."

McLean said that extra high voltage (EHV) transmission was initiated last spring when a 345,000 volt line between Milwaukee and Minneapolis was energized. Construction of this new EHV line made it more efficient and economical to transfer large quantities of power.

With the EHV line, WMPCO can purchase power generated by its parent firm, Wisconsin Electric Power Co., Milwaukee, at a lower rate. The savings are being passed on to WMPCO customers in both Wisconsin and Michigan.

During 1965 WMPCO made three electric rate reductions covering mercury vapor street lighting, electric heating for schools and businesses, and farms that use electric water heating or space heating.

Former Appleton Man Appointed Vice President in University System

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — A former Appleton man, Robert W. Winter, has been promoted to vice president of business and finance of the state university system.

The action came at a meeting of the Board of Regents of State Universities in the state capitol Thursday.

Winter formerly held the post of controller for the state university system.

A native of Greenville, Outagamie County, he graduated from Appleton High School in 1943. After military service he attended the University of Wisconsin and graduated in 1950. Winter is a certified public accountant, and is 41 years old. E. Ted Kuehner was appointed to Winter's former position as controller.

for a women's physical education major is already offered on the campus.

The planning of married student housing on the Oshkosh campus was also approved by the regents. The project is part of a system-wide proposal that will allow each school to add 64 living units for married students on each campus. Only the Whitewater campus, which has more student rooms than it can fill this year, is expected to refuse to take part in the program. Living units will be made up of one and two bedroom apartments, arranged in four buildings of 16 units each. The units are designed primarily for married graduate students, but no provisions were added to the proposal for the state university system. The sole vote against the proposal came from Regent Dr. Stephen H. Ambrose of White-water, who said that providing such living quarters for married students would simply encourage the trend toward earlier marriages among college students.

Pat Boone to Emcee Daytime Variety Show

Appeal Beamed at Young Adults With Program Emphasis on Youthful Guests

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Start- family 11 years ago. He had previously appeared on Ted Mack's Amateur Hour. The gar- able to find a new companion amid the plethora of soap oper- as and games shows of daytime television. His name: Pat Boone.

The all-American boy, now 32, will be offering a half-hour, late- morning variety show aimed at young married women. He adds that any older ladies, children or men who happen to be home at that hour are welcome to tune in.

"But the show's main appeal is for young adults," says Pat Boone. "I offered several names as- sider, both advised me to get off sidekick-announcer for the TV. They said that people show, and NBC rejected them, wouldn't be willing to pay to see saying I should have a younger personality. We hope to have a young-looking band and will aim for youthful guests as well."

Young Boons, Too

To retain the youthful pattern, he expects to feature frequent appearances of his answer to the Lennon sisters: Cherry Boone, 12; Lindy Boone, 10; Debby Boone, 9; and Laury Boone, 8.

Why is he doing the show?

"For two main reasons," he replied. "One is that it will give me a chance to stay at home for a change, instead of traveling all over the world for appear- ances."

"The second reason is that the show will allow me to do the things that I couldn't do before: to ad lib with guest stars and with the audience and to sing a lot of songs. I'll be doing three a day — that's 15 a week — whereas I used to sing three a week on my night show."

Started With Godfrey

Boone started out in television as part of the Arthur Godfrey show. Boone, who was born in 1938, is the son of a prominent actor and a singer. He has been in the entertainment business since he was a child.

"I was on for three years and I could have stayed longer, but I decided to concentrate on mov- ies," Boone said. "I was on for three years and I could have stayed longer, but I decided to concentrate on mov- ies."

The Monkees Get Kidnaped By Thugs

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7 — Channels 5 — "Your Friendly Neighborhood Kidnap- ers" flaps noisily as an episode for The Monkees. Andre Phil- lippe pops up all over the place trying to turn the quartet into a star attraction. He enters them in a rock 'n' roll contest; he has Davy mobbed by "fans." He plants their hand prints in cement, and finally has them "kidnaped" by thugs who take the assignment too seriously has served every branch of rail- road in the station and busi- ness level and even "punch in" the Vincent Van Gogh Discotheque and the mind gets swamped.

6:30-7 — Channels 3-7-12 — If you admire the flamboyant Western as camper and auditor, yakkety-yak humor of Phil Sil- ver then you may find him a welcome visitor to Gilligan's Island. As a movie producer, he 1947, became auditor in 1954 and determined effort to turn every- one on as a "star." There's some brute jokes as he tries to stage "Hamlet."

7:30-8 — Channels 4-5 — The host of The Roger Miller Show quickly warms up the evening with "Daydream." Peter, Paul and Mary, then join him for tunes like "Pack Up Your Sorrow." Mary even dedicates "For Baby" to Roger's year-old son and her two daughters. Casey Stengel soon arrives to report on what life is like for a retired manager of the New York Mets.

8-9 — Channels 4-5 — Are you really supposed to take "The Lean Years" on The Road West seriously? Bang, bang, the mild-mannered Glenn Corbett shoots down Charles Aidman, who has been cheating at cards with young Andrew Price. And then bang, bang, the victim's twin (also played by Aidman) shows up at the Price ranch to skin the hide of Corbett Serious stuff, indeed. But then why is Mrs. Elva Miller, the croaky chanteuse, on hand in the saloon to sing "Why Won't the Men Propose?"

9-9:30 — Channels 2-7-12 — Another look at The Jean Arthur Show finds its heroine again clawing and scratching to save her son's (Ron Harper) reputation. She is convinced in this episode that he shouldn't be aiding a singer who uses a tiger in her act.

9-10 — Channels 4-5 — "The Committee for the 25th" on Run For Your Life tackles a bit too much — gambling, racketeering and narcotics — all in the tinsel setting of Las Vegas. Viewers are asked to believe that Wendell Corey is a former San Francisco mayor whose only quest in life is to get the government to abolish gambl- ing.

9-10 — Channels 11-9-9 — If The Big Valley didn't get so sticky with sentiment and runa- way emotions, "Caesar's Wife," might have been a more appealing episode than it is. Tim O'Kelly plays a young man who has taken refuge with the Barkleys to get away from his beautiful but wicked stepmom (Dianne Foster).

A replacement has not yet been named.

Packers Weather Lion Rally to Win, 23-14

Starr Throws TD Aerials to Fleming, Dale

Chandler Kicks 3 Field Goals as Bays Remain Unbeaten

GREEN BAY — The Packers weren't at their best in Lambeau Field Sunday... but they won... and that's the mark of a champion. They put together just enough offense and plenty of tigerish and alert defense to produce this gratifying result on the scoreboard: Green Bay 23, Detroit 14. Bart Starr threw two long distance aerial bombs and Don Chandler kicked three field goals... the defense recovered three fumbles and intercepted two passes. It was short and sweet for the crowd of 50,661... and quite painless for the hungry Lions who dominated most figures except the ones that really count — points.

Stay Ahead The victory kept the defending champion Packers at the head of the Western division with a 4-0 record and dropped the Lions to 2-2. The Packers meet the 49ers in San Francisco next Sunday.

By comparison to the Lions' 12-7 win over the Packers here last year it seems a pity to even suggest that the Packers weren't at their best yesterday... but Sunday's game was a glaring example of what a champion must face — a highly-keyed opponent week in and week out.

The Packers were fresh from three straight back-breaking assignments — the Colts, Browns, and Rams. The Lions, like these three teams, pointed to the Packers as their "big game." But the Packers, despite a drop-off, had enough in the clutch to win.

Just as they did against the Rams a week ago, the Packers got off to a quick 17-0 lead on two sudden strikes — Starr's 53-yard strike to Marv Fleming and a 78-yard pass to Carroll Dale midway in the second quarter. In between, Chandler kicked a 14-yard field goal.

Move 80 Yards The Lions moved 80 yards in 12 plays for a 1-yard touchdown, plunge by Tom Nowatzke in the second quarter, making it 17-7. Chandler kicked a 20-yard field goal in the third quarter, but the Lions then drove 80 yards in eight plays for Amos Marsh's 8-yard TD run to make it 20-14 in the fourth quarter. While things got sticky, Chandler kicked his third field goal — this one from 31 yards — to produce the final score.

Each Chandler field goal was set up by a Lion error and, of course, this was solid proof that it doesn't pay to make a mistake against the Pack. Ron Kostelnik's fumble recovery set up the first Chandler field goal, an interception by Dave Robinson produced the second, and a recovery of a fumble by Doug Hart on a punt set off the third.

Starr's two touchdown passes were classic calls. He called Fleming on a shortie over the middle when the Lions seemed

Drysdale or Osteen to Hurl Opener for LA

McNally, Palmer Are Bauer's Picks for First Two Games

By JACK HAND PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Don Drysdale or Claude Osteen will pitch the World Series opener for the Los Angeles Dodgers Wednesday since Sandy Koufax had to go the route Sunday in the pennant clincher over the Phillies. "It will be Drysdale or Osteen," Manager Walter Alton said Sunday night in the chaotic clubhouse before the club flew home to get ready for the Series with the Baltimore Orioles. "Sandy probably will go in the second game." The Series opens Wednesday in Los Angeles. Oriole Manager Hank Bauer said he would start left Dave McNally (13-6) in the opener and follow with Jim Palmer, 15-10. "Davey has the soundest arm on the club right now," Bauer said. "And if the Series goes the seven games, we can give him three starts."

Sandy The Dandy It was Sandy the dandy, the 27-game winner, who saved the day for the Dodgers Sunday afternoon they had lost the opener to the Phillies 4-3. San Francisco pennants already had beaten Pittsburgh. If the Dodgers had lost the second game, the Giants could have forced a tie playoff by being knocked out of Sunday's beating Cincinnati in a special first game in the third inning, or make-up of an early season Claude Osteen would start

Massengale Wins Tourney Pockets $20,000 With 280 Total In Canadian Open

VANCOUVER (AP) — A mild-mannered Texan who be- comes dead serious on the golf course won the Canadian Open Golf Tournament Sunday and pocketed $20,000 for the four days' work — his largest check ever.

Don Massengale of Jacksboro, Tex., won the $100,000 tourna- ment and the Seagram Golf Cup in spectacular fashion, chipping in from 45-yards out for an eagle 3 on the par-5 16th.

The shot left little hope for Chi Chi Rodriguez of Puerto Rico, who led going into the fourth round. He missed a 10-foot birdie putt on the 16th that would have put him only two strokes behind Massengale, then went one over on both of the final two holes.

The 29-year-old Texan finished the round with one-under-par 70 for a 260, 72-hole total to become the only pro in the tourna- ment to master the sprawling Shaughnessy Golf and Country Club layout with better-than-par scores on all rounds. He had four successive 70s.

Chi Chi settled for second place money of $12,000 with a 263. Co-favorites Jack Nicklaus and Billy Casper shot 286 and 292, respectively for 27 and collected only $712. He follows Casper on the money list with nearly $90,000 won on the pro circuit this year.

to have their defense spread. This put one man, Bruce Maher, on Fleming and big Marvin broke the tackle and raced home. It was a first-and-10 play.

Starr's second TD pass, on a second-and-8 play, isolated Dale with cornerback Bobby Thompson on the ground. While the safeties were busy out wide Dale took the ball on the Lion 45 a few yards in front of Thompson and then the chase began, with Dale stepping away safely on the five.

These two bombs covered 121 yards, which was just 53 yards less than the Pack's net aerial yardage for the day.

No Interceptions
Starr finished with 11 completions in 19 attempts for 212 yards, the two TD's, and, very important, no interceptions. He was caught five times for 27 yards, which wasn't bad compared to the 11 in the 1963 Lion game here.

The Lions' offense was tough, as advertised. Led by Alex Karras and Roger Brown, the Lions limited the Bays to 10 first downs and 251 total yards, including only 66 yards rushing. Jim Taylor was cut down to 34 yards in 12 carries and Paul Hornung 22 in 15.

But the Packers didn't give anything away. They didn't fumble all afternoon—compared to five lost vs. the Rams, and Starr didn't have an interception.

The Pack defense submitted the two TDs and 349 total yards, including 174 rushing. The Lions had the big rushers—Marsh who counted 89 yards on 21 attempts for a 4.2 average and Nowatzke who averaged 4.4 on 61 yards in 14 tries. Milt Plum hit 15 of 24 passes for 193 yards.

The Lions shackled themselves with nine penalties for 123 yards. The Packers had only two penalties (for 12 yards) but they figured in the Lions' two TD drives. A defensive holding before the Lions' first TD penalty gave the Lions a first yard pass to Nowatzke but Tom down on the Packer 21 in the Brown ended the threat on the first drive and a personal foul Packer 32 by intercepting Plum threw a 14-yard pass to penalty gave the Lions excellent position on the Packer 8 in the second move.

The Packers opened action on the ground for a first down. Hornung and Taylor forced seven yards in two carries. Starr tried a pass but ran instead for a first down to the Packer 47. He then uncorked his scoring pass to Fleming. The TD is an automatic first down and that was the last time the Packers put together two first downs.

Punt 13 Times
Studstill and Chandler, who punted 13 times between them for the game, exchanged punts, but Don's went only 15 yards, giving the Lions position on the Packer 35.

Bob Brown, who went the distance at defensive end for the injured Lionel Aldridge, caught Plum for an 8-yard loss and Wayne Walker missed a field goal from 49 yards.

Kosteink recovered Marsh's fumble on the Packer 39 and a Lions' roughing-the-passer penalty set it down on the Detroit 17. Hornung and Taylor were limited to nine yards in three tries, so Chandler made it 10-0 from the 14.

Studstill punted twice and Chandler as the action moved into the second quarter, with the Packers taking over on their own 20. Hornung hit left guard for two and then Starr pitched his TD strike to Dale to set the score at 17-0. The Lions were scored for a face mask violation on the scoring play but, of course, the Packers refused.

Detroit slammed back for its first TD. The big play was a third-and-4 situation, with Plum and Studstill working a 47-yard pass to the Packer 29. The teams traded penalties before the Lions renewed the drive from the Packer 33, from where Plum passed 12 yards to Cogdill. Plum ran 9, Marsh 6, Nowatzke 5 and Nowatzke 1 for the TD.

The Lions moved again just before the half on Plum's 24-yard pass to Nowatzke but Tom down on the Packer 21 in the Brown ended the threat on the first drive and a personal foul Packer 32 by intercepting Plum threw a 14-yard pass to Studstill demonstrated amazing accuracy when he dropped a punt on the helmet of John Henderson while Willie Wood waited for a fair catch. This is a back-headed way of interfering with the receiver's right to catch the ball, and the Lions drew a 15-yard penalty, which gave the Pack position on the Detroit 47.

Starr threw to Boyd Dowler on the 33 but the attack stalled when Karras caught Starr for a 7-yard loss. Chandler missed a field goal from the 43.

After an exchange of punts, Davis and Robinson, who played a whale of a game, worked an interception. Davis caught Plum in the act of passing and the ball went skyward, with Robinson making the steal on the 30 and returning six yards. An interference penalty on the Lions gave the Pack the ball on the Detroit 22 and Chandler shortly kicked a 22-yard field goal for a 20-7 lead.

As the game moved into the fourth quarter, the Lions moved 20 yards to a TD. After Plum pitched 11 yards to Cogdill, Marsh and Nowatzke moved 26 yards in three plays and Studstill went 15 on an end-around (reverse) play to the Packer 28.

Nowatzke gained six but Kosteink and Brown nailed Plum for an 11-yard loss to the 33. Plum, on fourth down, hit Studstill for 17 yards and the Bays drew a weak personal foul call on the play when Robinson flopped on the struggling Studstill as he was hit by Herb Adderley.

That gave the Lions a first down on the 8 and Marsh hit the middle for a 20-14 score early in the fourth quarter.

The Packers slammed back with a first down on Starr's 21-yard pass to Dale but again Chandler was forced to punt. Jim Todd signaled for a fair catch at the last second and then fumbled, with Hart recovering on the Lion 22.

It was the break the Packers needed and they didn't disappoint though Starr was thrown for a 9-yard loss on the 24 by Karras on third down. Chandler kicked a perfect field goal from the 31 and signalled himself that it was good with 7:20 left in the game.

After an exchange of punts, Plum threw a 14-yard pass to

18 Killed as Plane Crashes Near Portland

Investigators Hunt
Clues in First
Accident With DC9

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Dozens of investigators hunted for clues today in the mountain ravine into which an airliner crashed, killing all 18 persons on board.

The West Coast Airlines DC9 went down Saturday night in the rugged terrain about 30 miles southeast of Portland.

It took 17 hours to find the wreckage and another three hours to find a way to it. The only way turned out to be by air. The forest was like a jungle. There were no trails. Only a helicopter could get in, landing in a mountain meadow a quarter-mile from the crash.

The impact came as the jet descended the western slope of the Cascade range.

First Question

The plane almost made it. It was down to the 4,000-foot level, and if it had not been for a 4,200-foot ridge, the plane could have glided into Portland Airport on a flight from Eugene, Ore., 100 miles to the south.

The first question for crash investigators is why the pilot, who was flying on instruments, apparently thought he was higher than 4,200 feet.

Officials said he reported he was 10 minutes out of Portland. Ground control gave him permission to drop from 14,000 feet. He was asked to report when he got to 12,000 feet, and in no case to go below 9,000 feet without reporting.

At that point the radar controller said the plane disappeared from the radar scope.

Not only was it the first crash of a DC9, but it also was the first crash to take the lives of passengers in the 20-year history of the airline, which is a feeder route operating principally in the Pacific Northwest.

Near-Perfect Launch Lifts Essa Into Orbit

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—A new weather satellite, Essa 3, circled the earth's poles today after a near perfect launch Sunday.

A spokesman said the 320-pound spacecraft was scheduled to take its first picture, of the northern hemisphere, around 3 p.m. EDT today and relay it to an Alaskan receiving station later.

The halbox-shaped satellite was hurled into orbit by a Delta rocket, made up of a Thor missile and two smaller stages. It was the first Delta launched from the West Coast.

Biggest Docket in History

17-Minute Session Opens Busy Schedule of U.S. Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court held a 17-minute session today to open a new term that is expected to be the busiest in its long history.

The nine justices, appearing refreshed after their summer vacations, watched the admission of 53 attorneys to practice before the high tribunal and then recessed for closed conferences during the remainder of the week when they will consider stacks of new appeals filed during the summer.

Chief Justice Earl Warren began proceedings for the nine-month term by declaring: "The 1966 term of the Supreme Court is now convened."

Huge Docket
This session the court faces a record-high docket of nearly 1,500 cases including some dealing with such controversial issues as eavesdropping, privacy, church-state relations, obscenity and civil rights.

Next Monday the court will begin handing down its rulings. This is Earl Warren's 14th year as chief of justice and the 176th year in court history. Warren is 75.

The associate justices in order of seniority are: Hugo L. Black, 80; William O. Douglas, 68 on Oct. 16; Tom C. Clark, 67; John M. Harlan, 67; William J. Brennan Jr., 60; Potter Stewart, 51; Byron R. White, 49, and Abe Fortas, 56.

Viet Nam Shipping Backlog Revealed

Spokesman Says 60 Freighters
Await Unloading Space at Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A shipping backlog, cut to near zero only a few months ago, has again become so serious that more than 60 freighters are waiting to be unloaded at this key port, U.S. officials and shipping sources said today.

These experts blamed the situation largely on feuding between the Army, the Agency for International Development and mismanagement.

The situation can be cured only by firm action at a high level in Washington to make the Army and AID work together, said the sources, who asked to remain anonymous.

U.S. Contractors

The shipping experts urged, among other things, that U.S. contractors with proven performance in the field be given the job of supervising the unloading of vessels bearing war goods and aid material.

Additional port facilities are being built along the river near Saigon, but the new berths may not be ready for months.

Other U.S. authorities acknowledge a bottleneck but attribute it chiefly to the South Vietnamese government's drastic economic reforms they say this resulted in jammed warehouses.

The government and shipping sources said there was practically no backlog of ships in June.

Now, they said, there are about 50 freighters moored off Saigon.

Weekend Toll 15

St. Croix County Accident Kills Five

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Five members of a rural Stillwater, Minn., family were killed Sunday night in a head-on collision on the crest of a hill in St. Croix County in northwestern Wisconsin.

Their deaths plus ten others in weekend accidents, including two double-fatality mishaps, raised Wisconsin's 1966 highway fatality toll to 816, compared to 757 on this date a year ago.

The victims of the St. Croix

County crash were identified as Arlin L. Evenson, 31, of Rt. 3, Stillwater, Minn., his wife Esther, and three of their seven children: Karen, 1, James, 2, and Sarah, 4. In critical condition at a St. Paul, Minn., hospital was another daughter, Lynne, 5. Three other children, Beverly, 8, Russell, 10, and Steve, 12, were reported in good condition in a New Richmond hospital.

Serious Condition

Robert A. Crotty, 18, Rt. 1, Somerset, the driver of the second car, was in serious condition in a St. Paul hospital.

St. Croix County Sheriff Charles Grant said the two-car head-on collision occurred on the crest of a hill on a dry, black top township road about three miles north of Somerset. The accident happened at man whose hotel suite was bugged by the FBI. Convicted of income tax evasion, he is seeking a high court hearing.

Time Appeal

The question of privacy recurs in an appeal by Time, Inc., from a $30,000 damage award. It is based on an article in Life magazine that likened the play, "The Desperate Hours," to the real-life experiences of a family held hostage by three escaped convicts.

On obscenity, the court will decide whether booksellers who claim they were not aware of the contents of allegedly obscene publications may be punished.

Among the civil rights cases before the court is one that asks whether four Episcopal ministers, arrested after trying to integrate a bus depot restaurant in Jackson, Miss., can sue the sentencing judge for damages. One of the ministers is the Rev. Robert L. Pierson, son-in-law of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

And on the church-state front, the court has been asked to take on two Maryland cases that may have historic ramifications.

One questions whether government funds may be used to help build church-related school buildings; the other whether church property may be exempted from taxation.

14,800 Strike at 3 GE Plants; Other Workers Honor Johnson Plea

WASHINGTON (AP)—At least 14,800 union employees of the General Electric Corp. walked off their jobs at three plants today. But a nationwide strike against the huge defense supplier appeared to have been averted by a presidential plea.

President Johnson asked the company and unions to maintain plant operations while negotiations continued, contending a strike would damage the Viet Nam war effort.

About 13,300 workers walked off their jobs at GE's Schenectady, N.Y., plant, some 1,100 employees struck the firm's Carbonyl Products Division at Warren, Mich., and 400 union draftsmen struck the GE plant at Pittsfield, Mass. Union spokesmen said these walkouts involved local issues.

Honor Plea

The remaining 105,200 union employees apparently were honoring the President's plea for a two-week postponement in a nationwide walkout which had been scheduled for 12:01 a.m. today, when their contracts expired.

Three Cabinet members, including Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, are joining negotiations that shift today to Washington after stalemating Sunday in New York.

A nationwide strike had appeared imminent when the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers rejected the key defense supplier's latest offer Sunday. Ten other unions representing 40,000 GE employees had been expected to follow the lead of the 80,000 IUE workers.

Needed in War

But Johnson asked the company and unions to continue plant operations, saying "our men in Viet Nam need these planes, these helicopters, these weapons."

"The presidential request has nothing to do with us," said Richard Bradley, business agent for IUE Local 301 representing 12,000 workers at the Schenectady Plant. He said Local 301 members and 1,300 members of other unions staged the walkout over local issues and not those involved in national negotiations.

The strike idled about 23,000

Find Poison Killed Blind Man's Dog

Special to The Post-Crescent

GREEN LAKE — A seeing-eye dog belonging to Paul Mehn, who is blind, died of strychnine poisoning, the State Crime Laboratory has found.

The dog died Sept. 15 in a Berlin veterinarian's office after Mehn discovered it was ill early that morning. Green Lake County Sheriff Raymond Winicki said.

Winicki took the dead animal to the crime laboratory, which performed exhaustive tests to determine the cause of its death.

A fund has been started by local residents and the Green Lake Lions Club to obtain another leader dog for Mehn. The Lions Club had provided his previous dog.

An investigation will be conducted by the sheriff and other authorities to determine if the poisoning was intentional or accidental.

Four years ago, several dogs were poisoned in this area, and the crime laboratory said strychnine was to blame.

Driver Dies of Heart Attack After Mishap

BELOIT (AP)—Frederick Foster, 59, of Caledonia, Ill., suffered a fatal heart attack Sunday shortly after his pickup truck crashed into a tree in Beloit, according to Rock County Coroner Richard McCaul.

Authorities said Foster's vehicle failed to negotiate a turn, jumped a curb and struck the tree. Foster's wife, Christina, was injured slightly in the accident. Police said the couple was visiting friends.

Violence Erupts At Meat Plant In Harlan, Iowa

Sheriff Calls for National Guard
To quiet Strikers

HARLAN, Iowa (AP)—Shelby County Sheriff Orrell Gearhart early today requested that the Iowa National Guard be called out to help quell violence at the Western Iowa pork plant near this southwestern Iowa community.

The sheriff said the violence erupted shortly after midnight in and around the plant in the 51st day of a strike by members of the United Packing House Workers Union.

He said more than 20 windows had been shattered in the plant building and several persons were injured when house trailers were tipped over near the plant. Five trailers were occupied by workers reportedly to have been sent in to work at the plant.

"Using Guns"

Gearhart said he was unable to determine how badly the injured were hurt because "we can't even get a doctor in there."

He said "about 70 persons" were milling around the building, adding that some of them were "using guns. They didn't fire at us," he said, but a number of shots were fired in the air and toward the plant.

He said officers were unable to do anything "because we don't have enough reinforcements."

A contract between Local 1235 of the Packing House Workers and the company expired last April, but the workers remained on the job until Aug. 18.

Last week, the company began rehiring replacements for the strikers, and full production was resumed Thursday.

The union reportedly struck in a dispute over wages. There have been no negotiating sessions between the company and the union, officials said.

Norwegians Allow Honoring of Columbus

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Crew members of the Norwegian freighter Tindfjell insisted Leif Ericson discovered America, but remained in good humor Sunday as their ship was informally rechristened in honor of Christopher Columbus.

After docking in Milwaukee Harbor, the ship became part of ceremonies preliminary to the city's eighth annual Italian-American Week. A delegation stepped aboard and renamed the ship the Santa Maria—for a day.

"Of course Leif Ericson discovered America," said Capt. Waldemar Schmidt, Tindfjell radio officer. "He was a Norwegian."

Tents Put Up To Protest UW Housing

MADISON (AP)—A new type of student housing project was erected on the University of Wisconsin campus today when three tents were set up on the library mall.

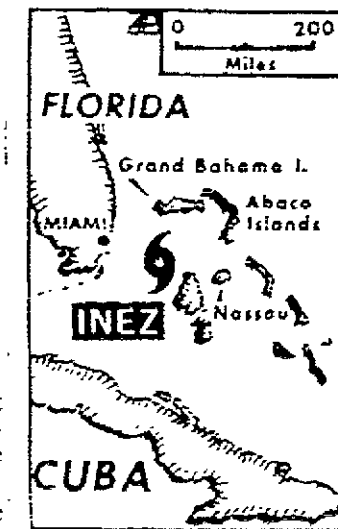

A group calling itself the Wisconsin Student Tenant's Union set up the tents to dramatize its complaints about student housing on campus and to collect grievances from other students.

The tents, set up with university permission, will remain for two days.

Al Gonzalez, temporary chairman of the group, said its aim was to establish a model student lease "giving the tenant as many rights as the landlord."

The groups said it was especially concerned because a rental firm contracted with students for more spaces than were available.

Gonzalez said other grievances were high rents, alleged fire hazards and lack of heat and ventilation, and a "general laxity of the landlords in performing routine maintenance."

Reds Hit Hard by Copter-Borne Force

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Helicopter-hopping U.S. men to charge the force of more than 300 Viet Cong and North troops pounced on a fleeing Vietnamese troops. The helicopter force today and re-ters were recovered.

The new fighting along the central coast shifted attention away from the prolonged fight by the U.S. Marines just south of the demilitarized zone separating North and South Viet Nam.

B52 Raids

U.S. B52 bombers struck a little below the buffer zone today for the fourth straight day of raids inside or close to the zone.

The bombers rained explosives on North Vietnamese troop concentrations and infiltration routes 20 miles west of the Marines' forward headquarters at Dong Ha.

In the two months of fighting against the rebuilt 324B North Vietnamese division below the demilitarized zone, the Marines have reported killing 955 North Vietnamese and capturing four and seizing 17 weapons. But some Leatherneck units have been hard hit.

U.S. planes flew 113 bombing missions against North Viet Nam Sunday, and pilots claimed damage or destruction of 46 buildings, 15 trucks, and 10 bridges, and numerous hits on oil depots.

House Backs Byrnes Plan on Anti-Pollution

Investment Credit Allowed for Control Facilities

BY FRANCES McKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — An overwhelming victory in the House was accorded Eighth District Rep. John W. Byrnes, of Green Bay, last week when it adopted, 330-2, his amendment to exclude the cost of construction of water and air pollution control facilities by private enterprise from the effect of suspension of the 7 per cent investment credit allowance.

The top-ranking Republican on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, Byrnes introduced his anti-pollution amendment to a bill temporarily suspending not only the 7 per cent investment credit provision of the present tax laws, but also the accelerated tax write-off provision.

Byrnes told the House the efforts of private industry are "indispensable to any effective attack on pollution."

Continue Incentive
"It would be incongruous to discourage private efforts of self-help while at the same time recommending a multi-billion dollar federal program as has been approved by the Senate," the Green Bay congressman pointed out.

"The need for water and air pollution control makes it essential that we at least continue the incentive contained in the present law to encourage construction of these facilities."

All members of the Wisconsin delegation voted for final passage of the over-all tax bill, which was approved 221-118.

Byrnes, in speaking of the need for additional federal revenue, told the House the present deficit "can not be blamed entirely on the war in Viet Nam."

"The overwhelming Democratic majority has voted out new and unbudgeted millions during the past 12 months," he declared. "In July, the beginning of the current fiscal year, the government spent $3 billion more than July of 1965. Last month, spending was up $2 billion over August of last year. Unless something is done quickly, we will have spent $127 billion during the present fiscal year, instead of the $112 mentioned in the budget."

Old Vehicles Displayed at Weyauwega

WEYAUWEGA — A parade of antique cars and horses highlighted the sixth annual Horse and Buggy Days celebration here Saturday afternoon.

Ranging from a 1903 to a 1941 Ford, the 50 antique cars led off the afternoon parade. The cars were followed by Shetland ponies, palominos and Clydesdales.

Mules and oxen pulled some rigs and wagons and floats and bands were in the 90 minute march down Weyauwega's main street.

Business, Finance Department Post

Former Appleton Man Appointed Vice President in University System

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A former Appleton man, Robert W. Winter, has been promoted to vice president of business and finance of the state university system.

The action came at a meeting of the Board of Regents of State Universities in the state capitol Thursday.

Winter formerly held the post of controller for the state university system.

A native of Greenville, Ontonagon County, he graduated from Appleton High School in 1943. After military service he attended the University of Wisconsin and graduated in 1950. Winter is a certified public accountant, and is 41 years old.

E. Ted Kuebler was appointed to Winter's former position as controller.

At the meeting the regents also requested that the attorney general's office initiate condemnation proceedings for the acquisition of land now occupied by the D. K. Electric Co. in Oshkosh. The site is planned for a $3,774,000 physical education and health building.

The regents noted that the state had not been able to purchase the land from the owners at a negotiated price, and therefore, court action is required to acquire the land which is needed for the construction of a building that was originally scheduled for the July 1965-67 biennium.

A physical education major for men at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh was also approved by the regents. The major, requested several years ago by the school and deferred at that time for lack of state-wide need for such teachers, was brought before the board unexpectedly as part of a proposal for such course work at Wisconsin State University-Superior.

The major could start as early as the spring semester of this academic year, but will probably not be started until the fall semester of the 1967-68 academic year, according to state university sources. The course still must be approved by the state Coordinating Committee for Higher Education before it may be offered.

The staff of the state university system explained to the regents that conditions have changed since approval of the major was originally requested by the Oshkosh administration. The faculty and the room space already available, they said, fund.

for a women's physical education major is already offered on the campus.

The planning of married student housing on the Oshkosh campus was also approved by proposal which would prevent the regents. The project is part of a system-wide proposal that will allow each school to add 64 living units for married students on each campus. Only the ties came from Regent Dr. Whitewater campus, which has Stephen H. Ambrose of Whitewater student rooms than it can water, who said that providing fill this year, is expected to such living quarters for married students to take part in the students would simply encourage the trend toward earlier age the trend toward earlier program.

Living units will be made up marriages among college students of one and two bedroom apartments.

Roy Shwery, president of Midstate Air Commuter, who was present for Sunday's ceremony, reported four passengers had boarded at Ashland Sunday afternoon so the plane was carrying its nine passenger capacity upon leaving Clintonville. Veo Swensen was the pilot and Tom Bouchard, co-pilot.

Improve Runways

The airport covers 640 acres and has two improved runways, a northwest-southeast runway 4,700 feet long, and a cross-runway 3,300 feet long. Both are 100 feet wide. The northwest-southeast runway was extended in 1960 from 3,800 to 4,700 feet. The cross runway was built in 1963.

North Central Airlines terminated its scheduled flight service here Feb. 28 of this year. Since that time city officials, Association of Commerce representatives and many individuals explored many leads and possibilities before the city contract for the Midstate Air Commuter service.

Chalet Started at Calumet County Park

STOCKBRIDGE — Ground and John Noffke, Neenah, has been broken to start construction of a ski chalet at the base of the ski slope at Calumet County Park.

The building will have two large windows and a ticket window facing Lake Winnebago, overlooking the ski slope. Also included in the plan are two circular fireplaces, first aid room and, if funds are available, a room to house equipment.

The county park board, in cooperation with the Fox Valley Ski Club, at a recent meeting, agreed to spend $12,000 for construction of the 60 by 28 foot chalet. The county and ski club will share construction costs. Lothar Funke, park custodian, reported four passengers had boarded at Ashland Sunday afternoon so the plane was carrying its nine passenger capacity upon leaving Clintonville. Veo Swensen was the pilot and Tom Bouchard, co-pilot.

The airport covers 640 acres and has two improved runways, a northwest-southeast runway 4,700 feet long, and a cross-runway 3,300 feet long. Both are 100 feet wide. The northwest-southeast runway was extended in 1960 from 3,800 to 4,700 feet. The cross runway was built in 1963.

North Central Airlines terminated its scheduled flight service here Feb. 28 of this year. Since that time city officials, Association of Commerce representatives and many individuals explored many leads and possibilities before the city contract for the Midstate Air Commuter service.

Monday through Friday, there will be two round trips daily between Clintonville and Chicago, southbound at 8 a.m. and 4:15 p.m., and arriving from Chicago at noon and 8:05 p.m. There are no Saturday flights. The Chicago at 4:15 p.m. and usual two-tenths of a mill, one arriving at 8:05 p.m. The flights originate and terminate at sufficient.

with conventional fuels," he added.

"This reduction in the cost of electricity comes at a time when most prices are on the rise," McLean pointed out. "However, the savings realized by new advances in extra high voltage transmission and the ever-increasing demand for electricity made this decrease possible."

McLean said that extra high voltage (EHV) transmission was initiated last spring when a 345,000 volt line between Milwaukee and Minneapolis was energized. Construction of this new EHV line made it more efficient and economical to transfer large quantities of power.

With the EHV line, WAPCO can purchase power generated by its parent firm, Wisconsin Electric Power Co., Milwaukee, at a lower rate. The savings are being passed on to WAPCO customers in both Wisconsin and Michigan.

During 1965 WAPCO made three electric rate reductions covering mercury vapor street lighting; electric heating for schools and businesses, and farms that use electric water heating or space heating.

Pond Proposal Okayed For Town of Marion

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A proposed pond adjacent to the outlet stream of Bannerman Lake in the Town of Marion in Waushara County has been approved by the State Public Service Commission.

The project had been suggested by Earl F. Krause of Milwaukee, who owns the land on which the pond is to be constructed. The pond is meant to increase fish and wildlife habitat.

It will be dug adjacent to the stream which flows into the White River.

WHBY's "Man About Local News" JIM BETHKE

The Constitution and County Government

On the important subject of modernizing county government to meet the demands being made upon that structure by metropolitan needs, a voice which speaks with recognized authority is that of County Executive John Doyne of Milwaukee who is the only man occupying such a position in Wisconsin.

Doyne has become convinced that a state constitutional convention is a necessity to accomplish the changes in Wisconsin's 118-year-old charter document which are needed to permit county government to perform the functions which its constituents are asking it to do. Basically what county government needs is home rule on a par with the latitude which the state constitution and state statutes now grant to municipalities.

In an address to the Wisconsin County Boards Association, Doyne defined home rule as the right of a county to determine its own governmental organization and procedures. And he charged that at present county government "is in a constitutional straitjacket" because of the constitutional requirement that all county government in the state be uniform, the constitutional limitation that counties shall have only those powers delegated by the legislature, and finally the constitutional provisions spelling out what officers a county must have, how they will be elected and how long they will serve.

The Post-Crescent in the past has expressed some reservations about the convention system of amending the constitution, but Doyne makes a strong argument in its favor when he points out that in order to abolish the five constitutional officers of clerk, treasurer, sheriff, register of deeds and clerk of court, some 16 separate amendments to the constitution would be required.

As population concentrations have spilled out over city boundary lines into suburban villages and towns, there are more and more demands upon county government to perform municipal functions such as operating airports, parks or police departments. The likelihood is that county government in the populous sections of Wisconsin will become the metropolitan government, although there are further complications in areas like the Fox Cities where the metropolitan area extends over county lines.

Yet whereas a municipality operates under a state charter granting broad powers and responsibilities, county government is a creature of the state and counties can only perform those functions specifically delegated to them by legislation. In recent years this has necessitated counties continually appealing to the legislature for authority to perform a specific function.

It is fortunate that Doyne has raised this issue while a campaign is in progress to elect a new governor, a new assembly and one-third of our state senate. It is an issue that merits detailed discussion in that campaign.

Democratic Candidate Patrick Lucey has called for a constitutional convention with one of its specific purposes being the modernization of county government. Republican Governor Knowles has generally opposed the convention proposal.

This is an ideal time to test this issue among the voters of the state.

De Gaulle Trying to Force U.S. To Devalue Dollar; We Help Him

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

While the Washington Robin Hoods of the Red Ink still play "Waltz Me Around Again, Willie" with our gold crisis, Sen. Vance Hartke (D., Ind.) properly condemns another inexcusable neglect.

Fresh from Paris, this

member of the Senate Finance Committee has picked up the complaint long expressed in this column about the gold we allow French President Charles de Gaulle to pocket. French economic spokesmen another Andersonville (both southern prisons during the war). Simply because he there did what he did, the Southerners raise for him this testimonial.

Oh, yes! By all means, let us trust these so-repentant villains!

25 YEARS AGO

Monday, Sept. 28, 1941.

Gen. Alpis Elias, Czech premier, was being held by the Nazis on charges of premeditated treason and six others were executed in the protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia. Germany enforced a rigid state of civil emergency on the occupied country.

Following a resolution adopted at the state convention in Sheboygan, the Wisconsin State Elks Association acted to use one-half its reserve fund for the purchase of defense bonds. Completing the transaction at the Appleton post office were A. W. Parnell, Appleton, vice president at large of the state association; Ray Fink, Menasha, vice president of the Northeastern District; Dr. C. O. Fliinger, Marinette, new president of the Wisconsin Elks Association; and Glenn Arthur, Appleton, exalted ruler of the Appleton lodge.

10 YEARS AGO

Monday, Oct. 1, 1956.

Bernard Kemps, Appleton, was re-elected president of the Wisconsin Contractors Association at the group's annual training seminar in Milwaukee.

Curtain Call Production at Appleton High School organized for its season of work backstage. Assigned to the construction crew were Alex Freedom, Donald Kleehn, Dick Koehr, Pat Seel, Marty Semmelhack, Frank McElroy, Duane Call, Allan Cunningham, Bart Pollard, Tom Jacobs and Lloyd Schreiber.

Students working that year on the lighting crew were Dave Boldt, Don Kemps, Joe Foley, David Bowker, Donald Weiss and John Doerfler.

Jack Burroughs was faculty adviser for Curtain Call Production.

have repeatedly insisted that we should double the U.S. gold price to $70 an ounce and thus devalue the dollar again.

Many European central bankers believe de Gaulle is trying to get enough of a corner on gold to let him achieve this.

The French President obviously couldn't care less about the uprush in our price level and bad pocketbook effect this would have on all Americans and how our savings would melt like burnt snow.

Moreover, the entire free world's postwar international monetary system is founded on the convertibility of gold at today's fixed $35 price and the exchange ratio of the U.S. dollar and British pound. De Gaulle violently protests this

FRANC AS KEY

The de Gaulle strategy would produce the French franc as a key currency out of the wreckage. Yet, although France still owes us $6.7 billion in adjusted debts — some so old they go back 26 years — we still allow de Gaulle systematically to conduct his declared war on our dollar and draw our gold instead of crediting our debts to debtor France against France's debts to us.

Senator Hartke has singled out the nonsensical gold drain to Paris from Viet Nam which we permit de Gaulle to use as added ammunition in his overall attack.

England makes large and continuous payments to her troops in West Germany. She wisely changed these from a free-sterling-exchange basis to a military-scrip basis (as we did abroad during World War II) to help reduce the drain on the British pound.

In Viet Nam we likewise pay our troops in scrip but we also pump out incredible amounts of U.S. dollars to local civilians, and to Viet Nam firms. Much of our taxpayers' $1.2 billion to $2 billion cost per month for the war goes into local construction, local buying and non-military economic aid out there.

Across the generations of French occupation the Viet Nam economy was built by the French. Most of it remains rooted in France.

Senator Hartke states: "Apparently as much as a third of our non-military outflow is being siphoned back directly to France. Then de Gaulle exchanges it for our gold."

U.S. Treasury officials quibble on the point. They cannot deny that de Gaulle is riding a beautiful gold train by cashing in on our taxpayers' Viet Nam costs. The only alibi they offer is that they don't know the exact size of the siphon but they "believe it is less than a third of the total."

WE'RE DROWNING

This is like somebody saying we are drowning in only 12 feet of water, not 16. The Treasury is forced to agree we're being drowned.

"It is an outrage," states Senator Hartke, "that in recognition of the dollar drain we already pay our troops in scrip while continuing to shower dollars convertible into gold on local civilians to whose support the United States has come. The effective way to stop this is to put restrictions on the gold convertibility of our taxpayers' dollars used in the war area."

The full ramifications of our gold crisis are so consequential that this crisis makes President Johnson's monetary responsibility now nearly as consequential as the Sino-Soviet menace.

The crisis is a compound of many factors, bred of political expediency and bad judgment. There is no single solution. This crisis is like a tapestry. The picture is created by the individual threads. You can only change the picture by changing the threads.

The Viet Nam gateway to our gold should be closed. A mere U.S. Treasury order can close it. A government that is so busy collecting our taxes should not be too busy to do an intelligent thing long overdue in the dawdling that has put our dwindling gold supply at another new 26-year low.

Women Have Minds Of Their Own — in Politics That Is

John Wyngaard, Madison correspondent, is on vacation and has arranged for a series of guest columns to be published during his absence. Contributors will include prominent figures in Wisconsin governmental and political affairs.

BY JEANETTE SWED

MADISON — It has been said that women vote along with men. That may have been true 20 years ago, but it is not true today.

The modern woman has a mind of her own and takes pride in it. She will not stand by, meek and mute, waiting for decisions to be made for her. She wants to listen and learn, participate in discussions and decide for herself.

Traditionally women have only labored for the welfare of their families within their homes. But today's woman is educated, alert, articulate and largely freed of the drudgery that bound her to the hearth for centuries. Because of this new freedom, women are entering the forum of public affairs in ever increasing numbers. In doing so, they have not lost their femininity. They have merely extended their womanly interests and insights into a larger and more far-reaching arena.

Women began to learn to make their own decisions when they were granted the right to vote. Now, in ever increasing numbers, they are to voice these decisions through political activity. In this age of challenge and opportunity in all fields and at all levels, women have entered the mainstream of American life.

POLITICS AS A PROFESSION

In a democracy such as ours, there can be no effective government without politics. Politics is an honorable and necessary profession. Politics is people dealing with people — leading them, persuading them and inspiring them.

Because politics touches on every phase of life, it is everybody's business. In a democracy, our government is only as good as our citizens make it, and politics is the medium citizens can use to insure sound government. Here in the United States, we are fortunate to have a two party system which offers a choice of issues and candidates. I have found, in my work in politics, that when a woman identifies with and works for a particular political party, her political voice becomes louder and clearer than it could possibly be otherwise.

My party has pioneered the idea of welcoming women as equal partners. The first woman delegate to a national convention was in our party. The first woman cabinet member was appointed by a Democratic president. And President Johnson has recently taken active steps to see that women receive equal opportunity and treatment in government and private industry.

Women have the opportunity to work in the party structure and to serve in public affairs — not just because they are women but because they are qualified individuals. We believe that this nation cannot afford to waste its woman-power.

Today women not only do much of the legwork of politics but also participate in policy-making and carry major responsibility. It is significant that the national policy-making committees of both parties consist of one man and one woman from each state and that these committees are chaired by one man and one woman.

WOMEN ACTIVISTS

Today many women who once shunned politics as a distasteful business are becoming political activists with a zest unparalleled in our history. The simple answer is this: women want not only to identify but to do something about the problems which concern them, and politics is a forum for unleashing this energy. In record numbers, women are making themselves available for volunteer work on all levels to both parties.

Why a political party? Progress! That is my reason. I am restless, often discontent, because I do not accept all conditions with a fatalistic "but that's the way it's always been" attitude. I do not accept poverty, hunger, sickness, fear or the idea that machines are going to make people obsolete. I seek to ensure an awareness of people and their emotions and the personal dignity of individuals through good government.

But only through knowledge can progress begin. Thus women must educate themselves to understanding the pressing problems and issues of our day so that they can act upon them intelligently. Educated and concerned women are an immeasurable asset for our society for "when you educate a woman, you educate a family, a community and an entire nation."

Guest columnist Mrs. Jeanette Swed is the ranking lady politician of the Wisconsin Democratic Party, as Democratic national committee-woman for the state.

Children Sure There Will be More Wars

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"If I get drafted when I'm 18," asked my son the other day, where do you suppose they'll send me to fight?"

I lo ked at him. He is just 11 — barely old enough to join the Scouts. And asking about his military service.

"I don't know," I said. "Maybe there won't be any war by then."

He shook his head in a

Harris

mixture of scorn and sorrow. "Sure there will, Dad. Who's doing anything to stop it?"

When I was 11, war was something remote and fictional and dramatic. Today it is not only immediate and real, but it seems a permanent state to youngsters. Life consists of going to school, then getting drafted and getting shot at.

"Who's doing anything to stop it?" Nobody, I thought, almost nobody. Fathers give their sons the best they can, but once the boys turn 18, we are powerless to protect them from killing and being killed.

It used to be called "defending your country," which is a glorious concept. But it is foolish to pretend today that war "defends" anything. War can only destroy the victors as well as the vanquished, the women and children as well as the combatants.

In some way, the children understand this better than their parents do. They have

'Testimonial to a Scoundrel'

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Post for Oct. 4, 1866.

Major Gee, the former rebel commandant of Salisbury prison, where so many of our soldiers were starved to death, is to be the recipient of a handsome testimonial in the shape of a purse of $5,000, presented by his rebel admirers.

The real spirit of the Southern people — their real feeling — is shown, not by the speeches spoken in the Doolittle-Randall Convention, but by the little acts and utterances that come out in their daily life and unguarded talk.

And these all run one way and show one thing — hatred to the Union, a resolve to trample down all Southern loyalists black or white, and an equal resolve to reward in every possible way the active traitors and rebels of the war.

This Major Gee was another Wirtz, and his Salisbury was

Answer These Queries To Find Abnormalities

NEW YORK (AP) — How's your sanity index? In a wacky world that seems to be getting wackier, it is only common sense for a fellow to pause now and then and count the bats in his own belfry. A certain degree of balminess is acceptable in anyone. As Mark Twain pointed out, when you realize that everyone is a little bit crazy, the mystery of the world stands explained. But one doesn't want to overdo being balm. Does one? To be place for the Johnson adminis- too balm may make even your tration to send its treasure and its heroes to reverse the normal tide of an off-year Congressional election.

That tide gives a powerful advantage to the out-party, in this case the Republicans. And yet this fall, the Johnson administration is making Nebraska a major test case of its hope that 1966 will not be a normal off-year election. The surprising fact, moreover, is that the Democrats have a pretty good case for their test. The sole Democratic congressman out here, Rep. Clair Callan, is regarded as a cinch for re-election in a district Democrats to be dropping in that, until the Goldwater debacle of 1964, had been a solid Republican district for almost three decades. The Republicans don't concede Callan his seat, of course, but they see the handwriting on the wall. But President Johnson is not one to settle for half a loaf. With the other two Congressional districts irreversibly Republican (they survived the Goldwater disaster two years ago), the big push from Washington is going into the senate race against Republican Sen. Carl Curtis. The President's first intervention came several months ago when, in a confidential White House chat with Nebraska's three-time Democratic governor, Frank B. Morrison, Mr. Johnson insisted that "the Senate was the best job I ever had." That amounted to a command to Morrison, whose appeal is distinctly personal, not party. The command: run for the U. S. Senate against incumbent Curtis, a colorless Goldwater Republican.

Running Hard Accordingly, the bluff and all the big-shots who have come popular Morrison gave up all in thought of going on the federal bench, returned to Lincoln and has been running like a banshee ever since, backed by an ever-ascending spiral of presidential help. BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK LINCOLN, Nebr. — As the most Republican state, Nebraska ought to be the last place for the Johnson administration to send its treasure and its heroes to reverse the normal tide of an off-year Congressional election.

That tide gives a powerful advantage to the out-party, in this case the Republicans. And yet this fall, the Johnson administration is making Nebraska a major test case of its hope that 1966 will not be a normal off-year election. The surprising fact, moreover, is that the Democrats have a pretty good case for their test. The sole Democratic congressman out here, Rep. Clair Callan, is regarded as a cinch for re-election in a district Democrats to be dropping in that, until the Goldwater debacle of 1964, had been a solid Republican district for almost three decades. The Republicans don't concede Callan his seat, of course, but they see the handwriting on the wall. "Callan has entrenched himself all too well," a top Republican strategist privately told us, "he'll win."

Provides "Service" Callan, in other words, has provided voters in the first district with the same kind of "service" that freshmen Democrats all over the nation, pushed and prodded by Washington, have been giving their new constituencies.

But President Johnson is not one to settle for half a loaf. With the other two Congressional districts irreversibly Republican (they survived the Goldwater disaster two years ago), the big push from Washington is going into the senate race against Republican Sen. Carl Curtis. The President's first intervention came several months ago when, in a confidential White House chat with Nebraska's three-time Democratic governor, Frank B. Morrison, Mr. Johnson insisted that "the Senate was the best job I ever had." That amounted to a command to Morrison, whose appeal is distinctly personal, not party. The command: run for the U. S. Senate against incumbent Curtis, a colorless Goldwater Republican.

Running Hard Accordingly, the bluff and all the big-shots who have come popular Morrison gave up all in thought of going on the federal bench, returned to Lincoln and has been running like a banshee ever since, backed by an ever-ascending spiral of presidential help. The President himself came out here in June to make a major speech. Furthermore, when Morrison intimates gently reminded the White House that his campaign was starved for money, the White House crashed through with a large check. Here in Lincoln, the word in Democratic circles is that Morrison will have a television fund of some 30,000 dollars — less than what Curtis will spend, but a staggering sum for the Democrats to be dropping in this Republican field.

Furthermore, Mr. Johnson's interest in making Nebraska a swing state, if not a Democratic state, doesn't end with Morrison. The second big race here pits Lt. Gov. Philip Sorensen against a bright, attractive Republican newcomer, Norbett Tiemann, for the governorship. Sorensen won the lieutenant governorship two years ago on the coattails of Morrison. This year, running far more on his own, he is a distinct underdog.

Avalanche of Democrats Nevertheless, a maximum national Democratic effort is going into the campaign of 32-year old Phil Sorensen, whose brother Theodore was President Kennedy's top White House aide. For example, at Morrison's invitation Gov. John Connally of Texas, a conservative Democrat, came here Sept. 27 as principal speaker at a fund raising "appreciation" dinner for Sorensen. Connally would not have come without President Johnson's consent. Connally is only one of a stream of Democratic figures who have come here on their own, or been sent by Mr. Johnson, to prevent Nebraska from returning to its ancient Republican heritage. The list is breathtaking for a state that used to be hopelessly Republican: Ladybird Johnson, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien, poverty commander Sargent Shriver and others. "If the Democrats could vote all the big-shots who have come here, they'd win in a breeze," a Republican leader told us. This bit of hyperbole aside, the hard fact is that by demonstrating such extraordinary interest in this one-time Republican stronghold, President Johnson leaves no doubt about his ultimate goal here: To make Nebraska, like Iowa, a swing state and take it permanently out of the "safely Republican" column. For the Republicans, the prospect is rather frightening. (Copyright, 1966)

Can we predict voting attitudes? Yes — No —

Yes, in many respects we can. A study of the San Francisco area showed that some communities would strongly support bonds for schools, hospitals and veterans, while others would oppose them. This was true, year after year, even though the persons who lived in a particular community would change extensively. We now have extensive

Intern Program to be Evaluated at Kimberly

Professor, Practice Principal to Work With New Teaching Ideas at High School

KIMBERLY — Dr. Terrance E. Hatch, professor of education at Utah State University, will visit Kimberly High School Wednesday to evaluate programs being initiated by Chester Racine, intern principal in the school. The intern principal has 12 years of teaching experience and his internship in Kimberly is a step toward receiving his doctorate degree.

Two state schools, selected by a committee of educators, were furnished with intern principals this year. Kimberly was selected because many new ideas in education have been introduced in the school system and the educators feel the school should serve as a "lighthouse" for others to follow, according to Racine.

Experiment With Ideas Prof. Hatch will work with Racine to introduce or experiment with new teaching ideas in the system. Already established is a flexible English and social science team teaching program which will be evaluated by Prof. Hatch. He will also make recommendations for improvements or changes in the course, learning programs into other Racine reports the board of schools throughout the country.

Two small youngsters playing in the area told police three boys on bicycles were in the playground at Franklin Elementary School huddled over something. They reported seeing flames, smoke and then more flames before the object struck the house.

A couple walking in the area told police they heard the explosion but failed to see

Top Worker For Civil Rights Seldom Seen

Clarence Mitchell
Fought in Congress
For Past 20 Years

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most people in this country. Negro or white, have never seen or heard of Clarence Mitchell, a tall, husky, rather shy man who has led a completely dedicated life.

There can be few, if any, men alive who have worked longer or harder for civil rights and an end to racial discrimination and injustice than this 55-year old Negro with a soft voice and a great supply of self-control.

Television cameras seldom show him, news stories seldom mention him. For 21 years, as Washington representative of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, he has worked inside.

His efforts have been aimed at getting civil rights legislation through Congress, getting the government to enforce legislation already on the books, banning discrimination in and out of government.

Working Inside

This means: Working under the Capitol dome with members of Congress, with all that involves in rounding up votes, consulting on bills to get them as strong and effective as he can; consulting with lawyers in the Justice Department on legislation and enforcement; conferring with White House aides of the President on all the ramifications of civil rights.

This is all work on the inside, out of public view. It's the outside men, like Stokely Carmichael and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who supply the civil rights movement with its dramatics and so become national figures.

Carmichael, with his ambiguous herangues, inflames some Negroes and angers or dismays some whites. King, with his speeches and marches, has come to symbolize the Negroes' struggle. Carmichael is head of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee. King heads the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Since 1945 But they are Johnnies-come-lately compared with Mitchell who has been at his job since 1945, lives in Baltimore and commutes to his Washington office, works 9 to 12 hours five days a week, and seldom has weekends home. He spends them going around the country discussing civil rights with interested groups.

Many individuals and organizations have been responsible for the progress made so far. But Mitchell's role in all of it is basic. If there had been no Mitchell, he would have had to be invented.

To an outsider much of his work may seem like drudgery. The endless conversations and consultations, arguments, frustrations, attention to details, push for action, and all repeated year after year.

The progress has been painfully slow but the life of Mitchell's own family is like a bridge between the past and the future.

Segregated University

He had to go to Lincoln University in Pennsylvania back in the early 1930s because the University of Maryland was segregated. Then it began to desegregate and Mitchell's wife, Juanita, and his brother, Parren, got degrees there.

Mrs. Mitchell, a lawyer in private practice, is also Baltimore counsel for the NAACP. The oldest of the Mitchells' four sons, also named Clarence, is a member of the Maryland Legislature, one of the three youngest persons ever elected to it. He is running for the state Senate now.

There have been almost suffocating frustrations in Mitchell's 21 years here. Because of Southern opposition, no civil rights bill could be passed in this century until 1957. Then others went through in 1960, 1964, 1965. Mitchell had a hand in all of them.

This looks like a dream to Mitchell now, compared with what he encountered when he started. In the postwar years none of President Harry S. Truman's civil rights legislative program—antilynching, antipoll tax, fair employment practices commission—had a chance.

But Truman got civil rights rolling through executive orders banning segregation in the

Nelson Compiles Perfect Record Of Liberal Voting

WASHINGTON (AP)—Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) says 24 Democratic congressmen have given 100 per cent support to liberal measures so far this session.

Among those receiving the ADA's 100 per cent "liberal quotients" was Gaylord Nelson, Wis.

ADA defines liberal quotient as "a measure of the liberalism of a member of Congress determined by the percentage of his votes cast, paired or announced in support of liberal policy, measured against the number of votes counted."

ADA, which is not affiliated with either party, generally backs policies of recent Democratic administrations, beginning with the Roosevelt New Deal. It supported such measures this year as minimum wage improvements, an end to discrimination in housing, unemployment compensation reforms and rent supplement funding.

Another receiving 100 per cent liberal quotients was Rep. Henry R. Reuss, Wis.

Fertility Drug Responsible for Birth of Seven

Boston Mother of Dead Septuplets
Expected Only Twins

BOSTON (AP) — After successful treatment with a fertility hormone, Sandra Cwikielnik was told she might have "twins or more," but scarcely expected septuplets.

The seven babies — four girls and three boys — were born Saturday four months premature, but one was dead at birth and the others died shortly afterward.

Mrs. Cwikielnik, 24 years old today, and her husband, William, 30, a shipper for a clothing firm, have one child, William Jr., 3.

Mrs. Cwikielnik is the first American woman known to have given birth to septuplets.

Earlier Births The hormone preparation she received is the same one linked with the birth of stillborn sextuplets and septuplets in Sweden last year, and with quintuplets born in August, 1965, to a woman in New Zealand and to another in Sweden.

Dr. Nuran Turksoy of New England Medical Center Hospital, one of a limited number of American researchers allowed to use the hormone, treated Mrs. Cwikielnik.

One of the principal goals of armed forces and discrimination in federal employment.

Although his part in what the government has done since 1945 is so little known publicly, Mitchell has the satisfaction of realizing his life has borne fruit. He says he is living now for the things his children will do.

Accompanying McNamara will be General Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and assistant secretaries of defense, Arthur Sylvester and John T. McNaughton.

researchers testing the drug is to establish standards for effective dose levels that will be effective without overstimulating a woman's ovaries and thus lead to multiple births.

Mrs. Cwikielnik was reported resting comfortably today at St. Margaret's Hospital.

Hospital officials said the seven babies were normal and well in the five-month period, but died due to the immaturity of their respiratory and reflex systems.

Kagen Seeks Area Board On Pollution

Urges Knowles to Appoint Group to Coordinate Spending

GREEN BAY — Dr. Marvin Kagen, Appleton, 8th district congressional candidate, Sunday told a union group here he has urged Gov. Warren P. Knowles to appoint a "regional board which could coordinate spending by municipalities, the state and the federal government" to fight the water pollution problem in the district.

The Appleton physician, speaking to members of United Auto Workers Local No. 1102, said the 8th district could "lose by default" if action is not taken immediately to form the area-wide program for abatement of water pollution by municipalities and industries.

"The Milwaukee area already has in the planning stages a proposal for the diversion of polluted water which cannot be handled by sewerage facilities during storm periods," Dr. Kagen said. "This plan has already attracted some attention in Washington and, with the help of Gov. Knowles and Congressman Henry Reuss, I believe they're several steps ahead of us here in attaining federal help."

Don't Have Funds "Most communities simply do not have the funds for this necessary work. The cities of Sturgeon Bay, Kaukauna and Algoma have, in fact, been specifically cited for the polluted wastes they send into our waterways during periods of heavy rainfall," Dr. Kagen said.

The House of Representatives last week appropriated $2.3 billion for a four-year program to help cities and states step up the pollution fight. The U.S. Senate earlier allocated $6 billion for a six-year program.

Dr. Kagen said he feels President Johnson will eventually approve a program calling for expenditures between the figures. "We should immediately take action," he said. "So this opportunity does not slip through our fingers. This is the perfect chance for us to get some needed help to solve the immense problem of municipal and industrial pollution."

Chief of Defense
To Visit Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert W. McNamara will go to South Viet Nam Saturday for a week-long visit to the war zone, the Pentagon announced today.

McNamara will confer in Viet Nam with U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Gen. William C. Westmoreland, head of the U.S. forces in that country.

The defense chief also will visit combat units in the field, on this, his eighth trip to Viet Nam.

Accompanying McNamara will be General Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and assistant secretaries of defense, Arthur Sylvester and John T. McNaughton.

Mrs. Cwikielnik was reported resting comfortably today at St. Margaret's Hospital.
